How to use LABZ — a quick visual walkthrough of every screen.

CYPHER COMPANION

Welcome to LABZ

Your practice lab for street dance. Set a tempo, run directive drills to a beat, analyze songs with cue points, track your progress, and brush up on classic moves — all in one place.

Swipe to see how it works.

Finding your way around

The home screen splits into two tabs. Main holds your training tools; Personal holds Goals and Progress. The button in the bottom-right opens the Moves reference, and this ? button opens the guide anytime.

Start a Lab

Tap Start Lab, then tap along to the beat to set your BPM — or let LABZ detect it from your mic or the track that's playing. This tempo sets the beat and how often your directives change.

Set up your session

In Session Info, load a directive set into Bank A (and optionally Bank B), and choose how often directives switch with "Change Every." This is what the app calls out while you train.

Build directive sets

Create and edit your own sets of directives in Directive Sets. Play them in order (Sequenced) or shuffled (Random) so every session feels different.

Train in a session

After a short count-in, your directives fill the screen and pulse on the downbeat so you stay on time. Hit Finish Lab when you're done, record with the dot, or tap the sliders to adjust on the fly.

Finish and reflect

When you finish a lab, the recap shows your time, BPM, and any credit toward your weekly goal. Tag how it felt and jot a quick note to remember what you worked on.

Analyze your songs

Import a track under Song Analysis, lock its tempo, and drop cue points at the parts you want to drill. Start a session straight from a cue to practice a specific section.

Set your goals

Pick a focus for today and set longer-term goals with progress bars. Turn on weekday reminders so you never skip a session.

Track your progress

Progress shows your lifetime totals, current streak, and milestones you've unlocked. Keep showing up to fill out the catalog.

Learn the moves

The Moves button opens a catalog of hip hop party moves, grouped from beginner "Start Here" steps to classics. Open any move for a how-to and a Watch Tutorial link.

A few tips

- Use headphones or good speakers so BPM detection hears the beat clearly.
 - Keep the phone facing you if you want the form camera.
- The screen stays awake during a lab, so prop it up and dance.
 - Start with a short set and a slower tempo, then build up.

You're ready

That's the tour. Head back to the home screen, set a tempo, and run your first lab. You can reopen this guide anytime from the ? button.
